18 Question a. Man : I'm going to go out of the office to get a cup of coffee now.
 Woman : Oh, would you mind getting one for me?
 Man : Not at all. What would you like?
 Woman : I'd like a regular coffee with milk and sugar.
 Question : Where are the man and the woman talking?

19 Question b. Woman : Shall I book a tennis court for Saturday morning?
 Man : Oh, but is your leg better now?
 Woman : I think it's OK. I want to start exercising again.
 Man : That makes sense, but I recommend asking the doctor first.
 Question : What does the man advise the woman to do?

20 Question c. Woman : How was your stay in England?
 Man : At first I felt homesick, but it later became a wonderful experience.
 Woman : Good for you. Did you learn any British English?
 Man : Oh, yes. While Americans say 'elevators', British people call them 'lifts'.
 Question : Which statement is true about the man?

21 Question d. Man : Ms. Smith, can I take a vacation next month?
 Woman : OK, but when do you want to leave and come back?
 Man : I'd like to leave the office for a week from June 20.
 Woman : There is no problem if you get back in the office by June 28 when Bob goes on vacation for a month.
 Question : When does the man want to leave for vacation?

22 Question e. Man : I got the letter from Zensho University. Will you open it for me, Mom?
 Woman : You should open it yourself.
 Man : I'm so nervous. What if I haven't passed the entrance exam?
 Woman : Don't worry. I know you did your best.
 Question : Why is the man nervous?

24 読み終わりましたか。これから英文が2回くり返して読めます。その内容と一致するものを①～④の中から1つずつ選びなさい。

それでは英文を読みます。

25/26

As technology becomes more powerful, many jobs are now done more cheaply by computers than by humans. For example, a small office that once had twenty workers now has five. At hotels and airports, we can check in by using machines. In supermarkets, self-service check-out desks are also everyday things. In the near future, cars will be driving themselves around the streets without drivers. Who could have imagined all this? But such a future is just around the corner. Humans are unnecessary for many jobs we once did. Today's young people should look for work that is very difficult for a computer to do. Otherwise their job might disappear over the next ten or twenty years. However, more positively, new kinds of work will be also created. People never imagined such jobs as system engineers or computer programmers a long time ago.

(30秒おいてくり返し, その後60秒休止)

28 読み終わりましたか。NozomiとMichaelが話をしています。2人の会話の内容について英語で5つの問いが読めます。同じ会話と問いがもう1回くり返されます。それぞれの問いに対するもっとも適当な答えを①～④の中から1つずつ選びなさい。

それでは会話文を読みます。

29/35

Nozomi : This newspaper says Japan's low birth rate is becoming a serious problem.

Michael : Really? Why is it happening?

Nozomi : Well, I think one reason is because Japanese women started working as much as men do.

Michael : I see. Do you want to have kids after you get married?

Nozomi : It depends. If I marry a man who can share the housework, I'll have one or two. But if not, I don't want any kids.

Michael : You mean men don't normally share the housework in Japan?

Nozomi : Well, Japanese men have traditionally tended to work long hours. My mother had to give up her job when I was born to raise me.

Michael : I think being a mother and staying at home seems like a waste of a woman's power.

Nozomi : I agree with you. Japan has to improve the balance between work and life.

Michael : I heard an interesting story about a company which recommends its workers to stop work and go home at five o'clock.

Nozomi : What happened to that company?

Michael : Actually their business improved. They made more money!

Nozomi : Wow, I want to work at that company!

次に問いの文を読みます。

30/36 Question a. What problem does Japan have according to the newspaper?

31/37 Question b. What does Nozomi think is the reason for the low birth rate?

32/38 Question c. In the past, how did Japanese men work?

33/39 Question d. What did Nozomi's mother have to do when Nozomi was born?

34/40 Question e. What kind of company was Michael talking about?

George : What are your plans after school?

Aya : A friend of mine and I are going to a coffee shop to study for the exam.

George : Do you normally go to a cafe to study?

Aya : Well, sometimes we go to the city library. But recently, it's been too crowded so we often go to a cafe instead.

George : When I was young, the only places where we studied were either at school or at home. We never studied at a coffee shop.

Aya : It's very nice there. We are quite hungry after school, so we can get some cake with our coffee.

George : Do you see other students from our school?

Aya : Yes, of course. We also see students from other schools. We want to work harder when we see them studying really hard for their university entrance examinations.

George : I see. But isn't it a little too expensive to go to a coffee shop to study every day?

Aya : We don't go there every day. Besides, I don't think it's too expensive because we can use the free Wi-Fi to study.
