Kenny and Bobbi McCaughey live in Iowa. They have a big family. In fact, they have eight children. But this family is also very unusual. Mikayla is the oldest child in the family. She is six years old. The other children are Brandon, Joel, Kelsey, Kenny, Natalie, Alexis, and Nathan. They are all five years old. Why are they all the same age? Because they are septuplets! Septuplets are seven children who are born together.

It is hard work to take care of seven babies at the same time, but Kenny and Bobbi did not take care of the seven babies alone. In the beginning, many people helped them. The babies did not sleep a lot, so every day, eight or nine people came to the McCaughey house to help them. Their friends and family members helped to feed, clean, and dress the babies.

Now, the children are older. Bobbi says, “It’s easier to take care of the children now.” The septuplets started school this year, but they don’t leave the house. Why not? The children go to school at home, like their big sister, Mikayla. When Mikayla was ready for school, Kenny and Bobbi decided to teach her at home. “Homeschooling” is popular in the United States, and many families teach their children at home. Last year, Bobbi taught her daughter, Mikayla, but this year she is teaching all eight of her children.

John Mole teaches how to understand *<sup>1</sup>nonverbal communication. He is a body language (a). He knows how to read it and how to use it. In his book, he explains how your body language can communicate your interest in what you are hearing or seeing. However, when you lean back and cross your arms, you're showing that you're not interested.

Body language can also show whether a listener agrees or disagrees with the speaker. If you sit with your arms and legs uncrossed, you probably agree with the speaker. (c), crossing your arms and legs usually means that you do not agree.

Mole also teaches how to (d) the nonverbal messages that people send with their eyes, feet, and head. For example, a woman with her head to one side and her eyes open is communicating that she is thinking about what the speaker is saying.
