18 Question a. Man : May I help you? We're offering special discounts today.
 Woman : That's why it's so crowded. Can I buy this book and get it wrapped?
 Man : Of course, but it'll take 15 minutes. Is that alright?
 Woman : Yes. I'll walk around while I'm waiting.
 Question : Where is this conversation probably taking place?

19 Question b. Man : We have to get this project done by Saturday.
 Woman : So, should we set up another meeting?
 Man : I'm afraid so. How about Thursday or Friday?
 Woman : Let me check... The latter day is more convenient for me.
 Question : When will the man and the woman probably have their meeting?

20 Question c. Man : Excuse me, can you tell me how to get to the Zensho library?
 Woman : I'm sorry, I'm new here. But let me see your map.
 Man : Here you are. We may be here on the map.
 Woman : No! We are here. And the library is just around the corner.
 Question : Which statement is true about this conversation?

21 Question d. Man : You've been looking tired recently. What's going on?
 Woman : I haven't been getting enough sleep lately. I get home from work at seven, go to bed at one, and wake up at half past six.
 Man : Why do you stay up so late?
 Woman : Honestly, I can't stop playing video games.
 Question : How many hours does the woman sleep these days?

22 Question e. Man : A storm is coming. We'll have to stay home until it passes.
 Woman : I can't stand this bad weather.
 Man : The weather forecast said it won't stop until tomorrow evening.
 Woman : Oh, no. I wish I could go hiking with my friends tomorrow.
 Question : What is the woman probably doing tomorrow?

それでは英文を読みます。

25/26

The WHO estimates that from 1998 to 2017 more than 166,000 people died because of extremely hot temperatures. Yet, heat-related issues are preventable. For example, when the humidity is high, body sweat will not dry as quickly. This limits the body's ability to release heat. So, pay attention to not only the temperature in your area but also the level of humidity.

In addition, the CDC, a national organization that protects public health and safety in the US, explains that some people are at high risk of suffering from heat-related illnesses. A person's age and weight play a part in surviving high temperatures. People over 65 years of age and under the age of two are especially at risk of becoming sick from heat. A person's general health is also important. The CDC states that long-term diseases and conditions such as heart disease and mental illness can put a person at greater risk.

Nick : Hi, Saki. Did you have a good summer holiday?

Saki : Yes, it was wonderful. I took part in a tour that did a forest protection project.

Nick : Wow, where did you go?

Saki : We went to the mountains in Tokyo.

Nick : In Tokyo? Are there any mountains or forests in Tokyo?

Saki : Yes, of course! About 40% of Tokyo is covered by forests.

Nick : 40%? I didn't know that. I thought it only had tall buildings and shopping centers. What did you do there?

Saki : I helped to plant trees and pick up garbage. People sometimes cut trees down without permission or throw their garbage away in the forests.

Nick : That's terrible. I think many wild animals have their homes in forests.

Saki : Yes. Forests are important not only for wildlife, but also for us humans. They help to provide us with our drinking water.

Nick : That's right. Were you interested in environmental problems before you joined the tour?

Saki : Not really. My friend, Eri, asked me to come along. But when I saw the damage, I realized the importance of protecting the environment. Nick, why don't you join the tour with us next summer?

Nick : By all means! I really want to save our planet.

次に問いの文を読みます。

25 31

Harry : How have you been? What did you do during the summer holidays?

Sakura : I visited my grandparents in Sendai and had O-bon with many of my family, like my uncles and aunts.

Harry : O-bon? What's that?

Sakura : O-bon is a special event held around August 15 to remember old family members who passed away. We welcome back their spirits.

Harry : That's interesting. How do you do that?

Sakura : Some people make horses out of vegetables. The horses are to carry the spirits back from heaven. In our family, we don't make horses, but we put out food and flowers, and we light candles.

Harry : Japanese people think the spirits of old family members are important.

Sakura : That's right. Thanks to O-bon, we have a chance to gather together as a family in mid-summer. Also, my cousins and I enjoy wearing yukata.

Harry : Show me a picture of a yukata. We don't have traditional clothes any more in my country. So, I'm quite interested in them.

Sakura : You can try on my brother's yukata next summer if you like.

Harry : Really? Sounds great.
