Commercials for coffee are constantly on TV. We can see more and more coffee shops around. It seems that the drink is very popular nowadays.

Coffee has long been thought bad for our health, but it is becoming accepted by ^{*1}medical experts. They say coffee can protect against many kinds of problems like heart disease, even when it is produced without ^{*2}caffeine. A lot of studies published worldwide in recent years have shown that coffee can be good for our health.

The U.S. government announced new food guidelines, as it does every five years. For the first time it said that coffee is not generally bad for people, even those who drink more than two or three cups per day.

Coffee may also help people live longer. According to a study on 400,000 U.S. men and women aged 50 to 71, coffee can lower the risk of dying from any cause by 10 percent — except cancer — among those who drink two or three cups of coffee every day.

However, medical specialists do not yet understand the clear reasons why drinking coffee is good for our health. That is why one of the ^{*3}authors of the new guidelines warned that, “It is not wise to think that coffee is good for all diseases.”

^{*1}medical expert(s) : 医療の専門家 ^{*2}caffeine : カフェイン

^{*3}author(s) : 著者
