Steve Jobs was born in San Francisco, U.S.A., in 1955. His birth parents were university students. They couldn't keep their son and so Steve was adopted by Clara and Paul Jobs.

The Jobs family lived in Mountain View, California. This area is known as Silicon Valley, where there are a lot of big technology companies. Steve's hobby as a child was electronics. He made simple computers with his father at the family home. He met Steve Wozniak when he was at school. They both loved electronics and became good friends. In 1976, they started a company called Apple Computers. Four years later, the company was doing really well.

After he became famous, Steve Jobs found out about his sister for the first time. His birth parents had another child, Mona, that Steve didn't know about. She became a famous writer. This amazing brother and sister were close friends until he died in 2011. People will remember Steve Jobs when they see or use an Apple product.

29 35

Nami: Jack, I heard your country, Australia, has Daylight Saving Time.

Jack : Yes. We often call it "Summer Time."

Nami: Can you tell me what it's like?

Jack: OK. We set our clocks forward one hour in the spring, and back one hour in the fall so that we can make better use of the longer daylight.

Nami: When will it start this year?

Jack: In my country, Daylight Saving Time starts on the first Sunday of October and ends on the first Sunday of April. Summer in Australia is from December to February.

Nami: I see. What are the merits of Daylight Saving Time?

Jack: Some people say that it decreases energy use, and longer evenings encourage people to get out of the house.

Also, the extra hour of daylight can be used for outdoor activities. These are good for the economy.

Nami: Many people use computers and air conditioners all day, even at night. I wonder if it helps save energy.

Jack: That's what other people argue. What do you think would happen if Daylight Saving Time were introduced in Japan?

Nami: Well, we would spend longer hours studying and doing club activities at school.

Jack: Oh, that wouldn't be good for either students or teachers.

Nami: True, but I would support it if we could have more free time.

次に問いの文を読みます。

3036 Question a. What do Australians do when Daylight Saving Time starts?

3137 Question b. When does Daylight Saving Time end in Australia?

25 31

Mary: Did you watch anything last night?

Jack: Yes, I watched a movie about an old Japanese man. He studied hard so that he was able to write a letter.

Mary: That sounds interesting.

Jack: His name was Tamotsu. He could understand and speak Japanese, but he had never learned to read or write.

Therefore, his wife, Kyoko, read and wrote things for him.

Mary: Why couldn't he read or write?

Jack: He stopped going to school because some students were rude to him.

Mary: How awful! Why did he want to write a letter?

Jack: He really wanted to thank his wife. So, when he was 64, he started to go to a night junior high school. He worked hard to learn to read and write. Kyoko was moved when she finally read his letter.

Mary: It shows it's never too late to start!

Jack: I agree. The government reported that in 2024, there were about 2,000 students in these schools, and around 400 of them were over 60 years old.

Mary: I hear that many students from foreign countries also attend such schools in order to communicate better in Japanese.
